Tort Negligence

Question 1: What is negligence?

Answer: Negligence is the failure to exercise reasonable care, resulting in harm or injury to another person. It involves three main elements: duty of care, breach of duty, and causation.

Question 2: What is a duty of care?

Answer: A duty of care is a legal obligation to act reasonably to avoid harm to others. It can arise from various sources, such as statutes, regulations, or common law precedents.

Question 3: How can a duty of care be breached?

Answer: A duty of care can be breached by acting or failing to act in a way that a reasonable person would not have done. For example, driving above the speed limit or failing to secure a hazardous area.

Question 4: What is causation in negligence?

Answer: Causation refers to the causal connection between the breach of duty and the harm suffered. To establish negligence, the plaintiff must prove that the defendant's actions (or inaction) caused their injuries.

Question 5: What are the defenses to negligence?

Answer: There are several defenses to negligence, including:

- Contributory negligence: The plaintiff's own negligence contributed to their injuries.
- Comparative negligence: The plaintiff's negligence is less than the defendant's, reducing the amount of damages recoverable.
- Assumption of risk: The plaintiff voluntarily exposed themselves to the known risk of harm.
- Statute of limitations: A legal deadline for filing a lawsuit after the alleged negligence occurred.
