Neurotology is closely related to otology but adds the training and skill to operate within the skull on the parts of the brain and nervous system related to hearing and balance.

What is the study of Otology? Otology is the branch of medicine concerned with the study of the ear and its diseases. This discipline is part of otorhinolaryngology, the speciality concerned with the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of diseases of the ear, nose and throat.

Is an otologist the same as an ENT? They practice in the field of medicine known as Otorhinolaryngology, also commonly referred to as Otolaryngology. Otolaryngologists/otorhinolaryngologists are also called ENTs, referring to the ear, nose, and throat.

What is the difference between a neurologist and a neurotologist? Neurotologists provide medical and surgical treatment to adult and paediatric patients. It can be seen as the area where neurology (study of the brain) and otology (study of the inner and middle ear) overlap. Neurotological surgery is complex and not usually performed by general ENT surgeons.

What does a neuro otologist do? A neurotologist provides surgical care to the nerves that connect the ear and brain, which includes treatment of hearing loss, tinnitus, dizziness, infectious and inflammatory diseases of the ear, facial nerve disorders, congenital malformations of the ear, and tumors of the ear, hearing nerve, and skull base.

Is otology the same as audiology? An audiologist is someone who has obtained a clinical doctorate in audiology. They are not medical physicians. An otolaryngologist or otologist is a medical physician. That's the biggest difference between those two professions.

What are the common otologic disorders?

What does a neurotologist treat? A neurotologist provides surgical care to the nerves that connect the ear and brain, which includes treatment of hearing loss, tinnitus, dizziness, infectious and inflammatory diseases of the ear, facial nerve disorders, congenital malformations of the ear, and tumors of the ear, hearing nerve, and skull base.

Why would an ENT send you to a neurologist? Inner ear disorders are common and patients with vestibular failure often present to a neurology clinic because of their dizziness, gait unsteadiness and oscillopsia. Vestibular disorders can be divided into peripheral and central vestibular disorders.

Should I see an ENT or neurologist for Ménière's? Ménière's disease is most often diagnosed and treated by an otolaryngologist (commonly called an ear, nose, and throat doctor, or ENT). There is no definitive test or single symptom that a doctor can use to make a diagnosis. Your doctor may suggest a hearing screening to identify any hearing loss.

What is the meaning of neurotology? Neurotology / otoneurology / neuro-otology is a branch of medical science which studies and treats neurological disorders of the ear. It is a subspecialty of both otolaryngology – head and neck surgery as well as neurology.
