Originally opened in 1946, the restaurant has been in its present location in the San Fernando Valley since 1949, handily across the road from the Warner Bros studios.

Why is La La Land so good? And it is the attention to the individual details in the characters that allow Stone and Gosling to shine. Another factor in La La Land's success is how the film pays loving homage to movie musicals before it, perfectly balancing affection with clever innovation. The movie isn't trying to reinvent the wheel.

What is the message behind La La Land? This movie demonstrates the dilemma people face in pursuing their dreams while giving up what they love and making sacrifices. Achieving your dreams sometimes comes at a price. It hurts to see the characters fall in love, then split off into the world to perhaps never see each other again.

Why did Mia marry someone else in La La Land? Summary. La La Land's ending subverts romantic expectations and emphasizes the importance of pursuing one's dreams, even if it comes at the expense of a relationship. Mia and Sebastian broke up because they both wanted to pursue their dreams, showing that sometimes sacrifices must be made for personal fulfillment.
