What is the purpose of a TRO?

A Temporary Restraining Order (TRO) is a court order that prohibits someone from doing something. In the context of domestic violence, TROs are often used to protect victims from further harm. They can order the abuser to stay away from the victim, refrain from contacting them, and surrender any weapons.

How do I obtain a TRO?

To obtain a TRO, you must file a petition with the court. The petition must include information about the abuse, such as the date, time, and location of the incident. You may also need to provide evidence, such as a police report or medical records.

What are the limitations of a TRO?

TROs are only temporary. They typically last for 10-14 days. If you need protection for a longer period of time, you may need to file for a permanent restraining order. TROs are also not foolproof. The abuser may violate the order, and you may need to
