Extrajudicial Summary or Arbitrary Executions: A Grave Violation of Human Rights

Extrajudicial summary or arbitrary executions are unlawful killings carried out by state agents or individuals with state authority without a fair trial or due process of law. These executions may be motivated by political, religious, or other factors and often target individuals perceived as threats to the state or society.

Arbitrary Executions

Arbitrary executions are defined as unlawful killings that are carried out without due process of law and are not justified by any legitimate legal purpose. They are often motivated by political, religious, or other biases and target individuals who are perceived as threats to the state or society.

Extrajudicial Killing Theory

The extrajudicial killing theory posits that governments may sometimes engage in the unlawful killing of individuals as a necessary evil to protect national security or maintain public order. However, this theory is widely rejected by international law and human rights organizations.

Geneva Convention Extrajudicial Killing

The Geneva Convention, a set of international treaties governing the conduct of war, prohibits extrajudicial killings of prisoners of war and civilians. The Fourth Geneva Convention specifically states that "protected persons shall in all circumstances be treated humanely and shall be protected against any act of violence, in particular against murder."

Meaning of Extrajudicial Case

An extrajudicial case refers to a legal matter that is not resolved through the regular court system. Instead, the case may be handled by an informal tribunal or other body outside the formal legal process.

Extrajudicial Agreement

An extrajudicial agreement is a contract or understanding that is not recognized or enforceable by the courts. Such agreements may be made between parties to resolve disputes or create obligations, but they do not have the same legal status as agreements entered into through the formal legal system.

Why is it Called Arbitrary?

The term "arbitrary" means that an action is taken without reason or justification. In the context of law, arbitrary actions are often those that are based on personal whim or prejudice rather than on legal principles.

What Does Arbitrary Mean in Law?

In law, arbitrary actions refer to decisions or actions that are made without a rational basis or that are not supported by law. Arbitrary actions may violate due process rights and other legal protections.

Types of Execution

There are two main types of execution:

1. Capital punishment: The intentional killing of a person as punishment for a crime.
2. Extrajudicial killing: The unlawful killing of a person without due process of law.

Meaning of Extrajudicial Assassination

Extrajudicial assassination is the premeditated and intentional killing of a person without due process of law. Assassination is often carried out for political or personal motives and is considered a grave violation of human rights.

Abbreviation of Extrajudicial Killing

The abbreviation for extrajudicial killing is EJK.

When Did Extrajudicial Killings Start in the Philippines?

Extrajudicial killings have been a persistent problem in the Philippines for decades. The issue gained significant attention in the 2000s during the presidency of Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo, when thousands of people were killed in anti-drug operations and other alleged extrajudicial actions.
