By Brian E. Becker

The HR scorecard is a tool that helps organizations align their people strategy with their overall business objectives. It measures the effectiveness of HR initiatives in terms of their impact on key performance indicators (KPIs). By tracking and analyzing these metrics, organizations can identify areas for improvement and make informed decisions about how to allocate their HR resources.

Why is the HR scorecard important?

The HR scorecard is important because it provides a way to measure the impact of HR on the business. It helps organizations to:

- Targets: The targets that the organization has set for each metric. These targets should be challenging but achievable.
- Action plans: The action plans that the organization will implement to achieve the targets. These plans should be specific, measurable, achievable, relevant, and time-bound.
- Reporting: The regular reporting that will be used to track progress towards the targets. This reporting should be clear, concise, and actionable.

How do you develop a HR scorecard?

To develop a HR scorecard, you will need to:

- Identify the organization's overall business objectives.
- Define the KPIs that will be used to measure the effectiveness of HR initiatives.
- Set targets for each KPI.
- Develop action plans to achieve the targets.
- Implement a reporting system to track progress towards the targets.
