Who: A Method for Hiring by Geoff Smart

Who is Geoff Smart?

Geoff Smart is a renowned author, management consultant, and CEO of ghSMART, a global leadership advisory firm. He has extensive experience in recruiting and talent assessment, and is known for developing the "who" method, a comprehensive hiring approach that focuses on identifying and selecting the best-fit candidates.

What is the "Who" Method?

The "who" method is a structured hiring process that involves the following steps:

- Define the Hiring Profile: Identify the essential skills, competencies, and personality traits required for the role.
- Source Potential Candidates: Use a variety of sourcing techniques to reach out to potential candidates who match the hiring profile.
- Screen Candidates: Conduct screening interviews to identify candidates who meet the basic requirements and have the potential for success.
- Interview in Detail: Conduct in-depth interviews using standardized questions to assess candidates' abilities, motivations, and cultural fit.
- Create a Reference Profile: Gather references from former colleagues and managers to verify candidates' skills and experience.
- Make the Hiring Decision: Based on all the gathered information, make a data-driven hiring decision that aligns with the hiring profile.

Why is the "Who" Method Effective?

The "who" method is effective because it:

- Objective: Focuses on specific, measurable criteria to minimize bias and ensure fair assessment.
- Comprehensive: Considers a wide range of factors, including skills, competencies, and cultural fit, resulting in well-rounded hires.
- Data-driven: Uses standardized questions and reference checks to provide objective evidence for hiring decisions.

What are the Benefits of Using the "Who" Method?

Organizations that implement the "who" method experience several benefits, including:

- Improved hiring quality, resulting in higher job performance and reduced turnover.

- Enhanced objectivity and fairness in the hiring process, minimizing discrimination and bias.
- Increased efficiency and cost-effectiveness, by identifying the best-fit candidates more quickly.

Conclusion

The "who" method by Geoff Smart is a proven and effective hiring approach that enables organizations to identify and select the best-fit candidates for their open positions. By following the structured steps and utilizing objective criteria, organizations can make data-driven hiring decisions that lead to improved hiring quality, reduced turnover, and enhanced performance.
