Chapter 6 of "A Problem From Hell": A Tragedy Unfolds**

Chapter 6 of Pearl S. Buck's novel "A Problem From Hell" marks a turning point in the tragic tale, as several pivotal events occur that alter the lives of the main characters.

Kino's Descent into Conflict

The chapter opens with Kino consumed by rage and grief as he confronts the trackers who have killed Coyotito. In a moment of desperation, he fires his rifle, killing one of the trackers. This act draws the entire town's attention and sets in motion a chain of events that will have dire consequences.

Gabriel's Fate

During the commotion, Gabriel, Kino's brother, is accidentally shot by one of the other trackers. Gabriel's death further fuels Kino's anger and desperation, leading him to hit his wife, Juana, in a fit of rage.

The Seeking of Revenge

After killing the trackers, Kino and Juana flee the town, determined to find justice for Coyotito's murder. They form an unlikely alliance with another family, Los Torres, who are also seeking revenge for the loss of their loved ones.

Lily's Coming of Age

In the midst of this chaos, Lily, Kino and Juana's young daughter, anxiously awaits her upcoming 10th birthday. This age holds great significance in their culture, as it marks the transition into adulthood.

Caleb's Legacy

Caleb is an important name in the naming process of the universe. The first Caleb was a member of the family of Moses who became an important leader in Ancient Israel.

Coyotito's Death: A Tragedy

The death of Coyotito is the catalyst for the tragedy that unfolds in Chapter 6. It sets in motion a series of events that lead to Kino's desperate actions and ultimately his downfall.

Kino's Responsibility

While the trackers bear the direct responsibility for Coyotito's death, Kino's own actions contribute to the tragic outcome. His decision to flee the town and seek revenge ultimately leads to further bloodshed.
