MLA Citation: A Comprehensive Guide

What is MLA Formatting Called?

MLA formatting is also known as the Modern Language Association style. It is a documentation style commonly used in the humanities, especially in English language and literature studies.

What is MLA Style of Citing?

MLA style requires citations to be placed within the text of your work, providing brief information about the source. These citations are then expanded into a Works Cited page at the end of your document.

Two Types of MLA Citations:

- In-text Citations: These appear within the text of your work. They typically include the author's last name and the page number from where the information was taken. For example: (Smith 12).
- Works Cited Page Citations: These are full citations for the sources you have used in your work. They appear on a separate page at the end of your document, arranged alphabetically by author's last name.

Example of MLA Citation for an Article from a Scholarly Journal:

- In-text Citation: (Keenan 5)

- Works Cited Page Citation:

Keenan, Rebecca. "The Power of Language: How Words Shape Our World." Journal of Language and Communication, vol. 20, no. 2, 2023, pp. 1-15. JSTOR, www.jstor.org/stable/27063888. Accessed 10 March 2023.

Example of MLA Citation in Research:

In-text Citation: According to a study by Smith (2022), the use of technology in education has significantly improved student outcomes.

Works Cited Page Citation:

Smith, John. "The Impact of Technology on Student Learning Outcomes in the 21st Century." Journal of Educational Technology, vol. 33, no. 4, 2022, pp. 55-68. www.sciencedirect.com/science/article/abs/pii/S0163192322000158. Accessed 12 March 2023.

Are MLA and Harvard Referencing the Same?

No, MLA and Harvard referencing are two different citation styles. Harvard referencing is also known as the Australian Harvard Referencing Style, and it is commonly used in social sciences, law, and history disciplines.

NLM Citation:
