Download Complete File

What is a Chapter 7 test? The means test compares a debtor's income for the previous six months to what he or she owes on debts. If a person has enough money coming in to gradually pay down debts, the bankruptcy judge is unlikely to allow a Chapter 7 discharge.

How to pass the Chapter 7 means test? If your total monthly income over the course of the next 60 months is less than $7,475 then you pass the means test and you may file a Chapter 7 bankruptcy. If it is over $12,475 then you fail the means test and don't have the option of filing Chapter 7.

What questions are asked at a Chapter 7 hearing?

How much disposable income is too much for Chapter 7? If the debtor's disposable income, projected for a five-year period, is more than 25 percent of the total unsecured debt, the debtor will likely be denied a Chapter 7 filing. If the percentage is less than 25 percent, the debtor will most likely survive the means test and be allowed to continue with a Chapter 7 filing.

How is the Chapter 7 mean test calculated? The full Means Test compares the debtor's income to their expenses to determine whether they should benefit from Chapter 7 relief based on their "disposable income." Applying the Means Test involves deducting all household expenses from the debtor's gross income, including housing costs, utilities, medical expenses, ...

What is an example of a means test? For example, if your monthly income is $5,800 per month and your expenses are $5,600, you have $200 in monthly discretionary funds. The means test assumes that these discretionary funds are available for debt repayment and calculates how much you could repay in total over five years, or 60 monthly payments.

Should I be nervous about my 341 meeting? Most people experience some level of anxiety before attending the meeting of creditors, so you're not alone. In all likelihood, you don't have anything to worry about. Most cases breeze through the 341 meeting process without a problem.

What can you not do after filing Chapter 7?

What happens 60 days after the 341 meeting? The Court enters an order discharging individual Debtors after all requirements are met, but no sooner than the last day to object to the Debtor's Discharge. This is usually 60 days after the 1st setting of the 341 Meeting of Creditors unless a motion is filed with the court to extend that time.
