Download Complete File

What engine came in a 1957 Corvette? Valve-in-head V8, 283-cubic-inch displacement, 3.88" bore x 3.0" stroke, 9.5 to 1 compression ratio. 220 h.p. at 4600 r.p.m. with 4-barrel carburetor. 245 h.p. at 5000 r.p.m with Ramjet Fuel Injection system. High-lift camshaft, hydraulic valve lifters.

How many 1957 Corvettes were fuel injected? Of 6,339 Corvettes produced in 1957, only 240 were optioned with the new fuel-injection system. After this new power package began hitting the streets and winning sanctioned races, (and no doubt, a few unsanctioned, as well) sales of the '57 Corvette almost doubled those of the '56 a year before.

What was the top speed of the 1965 Corvette? That Mark IV engine attracted Corvette enthusiasts to their local Chevrolet dealerships in packs and the 396 equipped 1965 Corvette ran a quarter mile in around 14 seconds at 104 miles per hour and could now run a top speed of nearly 140 mph.

How much horsepower does a 1965 Corvette 327 have?

How much horsepower does a 57 Corvette 283 have? A maximum performance 283-HP at 6200-rpm engine was available with a close-ratio Synchro-Mesh transmission along with a Ramjet Fuel Injection system. It included 10.5 to 1 compression ratio, competition-type camshaft, and high-speed valve system with special valve springs, spring dampers, and mechanical valve lifters.

What is the top speed of a 1957 Corvette? An engine speed of 6500 is easily reached in 4th gear, equivalent to 132 mph with no allowance for tire expansion.

With suitable gears the Corvette can approach 150 mph, as has been proven at Bonneville and at Daytona.

What was the last year of the carbureted Corvette? In 1981, Chevy produced its last carbureted engine for the Corvette: a mild 350 cubic-inch behind a four-speed transmission, putting out a measly 190hp. In 1982, the Corvette introduced a new generation of fuel injection with the 190 horsepower Crossfire 5.7L engine.

How many 57 Corvettes are left? If Hunt's figures are accurate, about 1585 would still be around. The number reported in the C1 Corvette Registry for 1957 is 233. Of course, that only is a fraction of the '57s still running.

How many 1965 fuel injected Corvettes were built? Out of the 23,562 Corvettes that were built in 1965, with 8,186 coupes and 15,376 convertibles, a mere 771 were produced with the Ram Jet mechanical fuel injection.

What was the slowest Corvette?

Did 1965 Corvette have a 427?

How does a 327 compared to a 350? The bottom line here is simple; no matter what you do to a 327, if you do the same thing to a 350, it WILL make more horsepower and torque than a 327 will, period. The same thing goes with ANY engine when comparing cubic inches and power, especially when you are talking about making more torque with longer strokes.

What was the most powerful 327 engine? Those early 375 horsepower models were the fastest factory 327's ever produced and by 1966 the engine dropped to 325 and 350 horsepower models that came with an 11-to-1 compression ratio.

How fast was a 1967 Corvette with a 427 engine? As soon as it's rolling, say at 500 rpm, you can push the throttle to the floor and the car just picks up with a turbine-like swelling surge of power that never misses a beat all the way up to its top speed of over 140 mph.

What is the most powerful Corvette engine in the 60s? The introduction of the "Big Block" engines in the mid-60s, including the legendary L88, pushed the boundaries of performance. With a 7.0L displacement, the L88 was a beast, offering north of 430 horsepower (though widely believed to be underestimated).

What is the lowest horsepower Corvette ever made? In 1975, things got even sadder, as the small block under the hood of that year's Corvette reached an all-time low of only 165 horsepower.

How many 1957 Corvettes had Fuel Injection? In 1957 only 6339 Corvettes were produced of which 1,040 were fuel injected. This was the first year for factory fuel injection Corvettes. Chassis number indicates vehicle was built in May of 1957. Left the factory with white exterior and 283/283hp fuelinjected V8 engine.

What was the first year Corvette had a 427 engine? "porcupine" head engine appeared in 1965, followed by the 427 cu. in. V-8 in 1966.

What year was 5.7 in Corvette?
