The Berlin Wall: A World Divided, 1961-1989

The Berlin Wall, a symbol of Cold War division, separated East and West Berlin for 28 years. Constructed in 1961, it became a glaring reminder of the ideological and political gulf between East and West.

Q: Why was the Berlin Wall built? A: The Wall was erected by East Germany to prevent its citizens from fleeing to West Berlin. East Germany feared that the influx of refugees would weaken its economy and undermine its communist system.

Q: What was life like on either side of the Wall? A: West Berlin enjoyed economic prosperity and political freedom, while East Berlin was under the oppressive rule of the communist regime. The Wall made it nearly impossible for East Germans to escape to the West, and many who attempted to do so were killed.

Q: Who was involved in the construction of the Wall? A: The Wall was built by East German troops with the support of the Soviet Union. The United States and its allies condemned the construction of the Wall and demanded its removal.

Q: How did the Wall come down? A: The Berlin Wall fell on November 9, 1989, after a series of peaceful protests and negotiations between East and West Germany. The fall of the Wall symbolized the end of the Cold War and the reunification of Germany.

Q: What was Frederick Taylor's role in the Berlin Wall? A: Frederick Taylor was the U.S. Army general who oversaw the Berlin blockade in 1948, which prevented Soviet access to West Berlin. His actions helped to prevent the spread of communism in Europe and set the stage for the Cold War.

Selvarajan Yesudian: A Pioneer in Yoga and Meditation
