Mastermind: A Thrilling Game of Logic

Mastermind is a classic board game that tests players' cognitive abilities and strategic thinking. The game involves two players: a Codemaker and a Codebreaker.

The goal of the Codemaker is to create a secret code, while the Codebreaker attempts to guess the code using a series of logical deductions.

Question: What is the objective of Mastermind?

Answer: The objective of Mastermind is for the Codebreaker to correctly guess the Codemaker's secret code within a limited number of attempts.

Question: How is the secret code created?

Answer: The Codemaker chooses a code consisting of four colored pegs, arranged in a specific order. The pegs can be any of six different colors.

Question: How does the Codebreaker make guesses?

Answer: The Codebreaker makes guesses by placing four colored pegs on the board. The Codemaker then provides feedback by indicating the number of pegs that are the correct color and in the correct position (called "hits") and the number of pegs that are the correct color but in the wrong position (called "near hits").

Question: How does the Codebreaker deduce the secret code?

Answer: By carefully analyzing the feedback received from the Codemaker, the Codebreaker can eliminate incorrect guesses and narrow down the possibilities. As the game progresses, the Codebreaker makes increasingly informed guesses based on the feedback they have received.

Question: What is a valid guess in Mastermind?

Answer: A valid guess in Mastermind consists of four colored pegs, arranged in a specific order. The colors of the pegs must be chosen from the six available colors.
