Terrorism in Southeast Asia: A Growing Threat

By: International Institute for Strategic Studies (IISS)

1. What is the extent of terrorism in Southeast Asia?

Terrorism in Southeast Asia remains a significant threat, with extremist groups continuing to operate and launch attacks in the region. In recent years, the Islamic State (ISIS) and its affiliates have been particularly active, carrying out bombings, assassinations, and hostage-takings. Other terrorist organizations, such as Jemaah Islamiyah (JI), continue to pose a threat.

2. What are the main drivers of terrorism in Southeast Asia?

Poverty, inequality, and social grievances are among the factors contributing to the rise of terrorism in Southeast Asia. Weak governance and corruption can also create favorable conditions for terrorist groups to operate. In addition, the region's porous borders and easy access to weapons and funds make it a prime target for terrorist activity.

3. How are governments in Southeast Asia responding to the threat of terrorism?

Southeast Asian governments have taken a range of measures to combat terrorism, including increased security measures, intelligence sharing, and counterterrorism operations. However, challenges remain, such as the need for greater cooperation between countries and the difficulty in addressing the root causes of terrorism.

4. What is the international community doing to support counterterrorism efforts in Southeast Asia?

The international community is providing assistance to Southeast Asian countries in their fight against terrorism. This includes training and capacity-building for security forces, intelligence sharing, and financial support. The United States, in particular, has been a major partner in counterterrorism efforts in the region.

5. What are the prospects for the fight against terrorism in Southeast Asia?

While terrorist threats will likely persist in Southeast Asia, there is reason for optimism. Governments in the region are becoming more effective in countering terrorism, and the international community is providing support. By addressing the underlying causes of terrorism and working together, there is a chance to reduce the threat and promote peace and stability in Southeast Asia.

STCW 2010 Manila Amendments: Change or No Change?

The International Convention on Standards of Training, Certification and Watchkeeping for Seafarers (STCW), adopted by the International Maritime Organization (IMO) in 1978, has undergone several amendments over the years to reflect advancements in technology, seafaring practices, and safety regulations. The most significant amendment, known as the STCW 2010 Manila Amendments, came into force in 2012.

Q1: What's the main difference between the STCW 2010 Manila Amendments and previous versions?

A1: The STCW 2010 Manila Amendments introduced several key changes, including revised requirements for:

- Training content and assessment methods
- Certification and endorsement requirements
- Medical fitness standards
- Proficiency in electronic charts and navigation systems

Q2: Do the amendments change the qualifications required for seafarers to obtain a Certificate of Competency (CoC)?

A2: Not necessarily. The CoCs issued under the STCW 95 are generally recognized as equivalent to those issued under the STCW 2010 Manila Amendments. However, some specific requirements may have changed, such as updated training content or assessment methods.

Q3: What are the implications for seafarers already holding CoCs issued under the STCW 95?

A3: Seafarers who hold CoCs issued before the entry into force of the STCW 2010 Manila Amendments are not required to retake training or obtain new CoCs. However, they may need to undergo refresher training or demonstrate compliance with any new requirements, such as proficiency in electronic navigation systems.

Q4: What about seafarers seeking to obtain new CoCs under the STCW 2010 Manila Amendments?

A4: Seafarers seeking to obtain new CoCs must comply with the updated requirements set out in the STCW 2010 Manila Amendments. This includes updated training content, assessment methods, and medical fitness standards.

Q5: When did the STCW 2010 Manila Amendments come into force?

A5: The STCW 2010 Manila Amendments came into force on January 1, 2012. However, certain provisions related to electronic charts and navigation systems were phased in over a period of time.
