Speech Organization Patterns: CLA Purdue

What are the CLA Purdue speech organization patterns?

The CLA Purdue speech organization patterns are a set of six main patterns that can be used to organize a speech:

- Chronological: Arranging events or information in the order in which they occurred.
- Logical: Presenting information in a logical order, such as cause and effect or problem and solution.
- Spatial: Organizing information based on its physical location or arrangement.
- Topical: Dividing the speech into distinct topics or themes.
- Compare/Contrast: Comparing and contrasting two or more ideas or objects.
- Persuasive: Using logical arguments and evidence to persuade the audience to agree with a particular viewpoint.

What is the purpose of using speech organization patterns?

Speech organization patterns help speakers to:

- Structure their speech effectively and logically.
- Make their speech more coherent and easier to follow.

- Enhance audience understanding and retention.

How do you choose the right speech organization pattern?

The choice of speech organization pattern depends on the topic, purpose, and audience of the speech. Consider the following factors:

- Topic: Determine the logical flow of the information in your speech.
- Purpose: Decide whether you want to inform, persuade, or entertain your audience.
- Audience: Consider the audience's level of knowledge and interest in the topic.

How do you apply speech organization patterns in practice?

To apply speech organization patterns, follow these steps:

1. Choose an appropriate pattern based on the factors above.
2. Create an outline that reflects the chosen pattern.
3. Develop your speech content by filling in the sections of your outline.
4. Use transitions to connect the different sections of your speech and guide the audience through your message.
5. Practice your speech to ensure smooth delivery and effective organization.

Conclusion

Effective speech organization is crucial for successful communication. By understanding and applying the CLA Purdue speech organization patterns, speakers can structure their speeches logically and engagingly, enhancing audience comprehension and impact.
