What is the air gap in extrusion coating? The air gap, or draw distance, between the die lips and the nip to chill roll contact point is one of the most important areas in terms of the polymer's coating performance. In the air gap, some of the properties of the laminate are most affected by extrusion conditions.

What is the acceptable air gap? An air gap between the water supply inlet and the flood level rim of the plumbing fixture, equipment, or nonfood equipment shall be at least twice the diameter of the water supply inlet and may not be less than 25 millimeters (1 inch).

What is normal air gap? The standard air gap in an electric motor is typically about 0.020-0.050 inches. In most design processes, there is give-and-take to the amount of air gap designed into the motor. A wider air gap increases the rotor-stator alignment tolerances, easing installation.
