What maintenance does an Airstream need?

Who owns the Airstream? Airstream, still based in Jackson Center, is a division of Thor Industries.

Is there a recall on Airstream Interstate? PROBLEM: It has come to our attention that certain model year 2024 Interstate touring coaches do not have the 12V in-line fuse that provides back-up power to the water heater/furnace system. If a short circuit were to occur, it could result in a fire, increasing the risk of personal injury and/or property damage.

What is the warranty on the Airstream caravel? Airstream warranty We are further committed to using products that conform to all established safety standards, requirements, and the reasonable expectations of our customers. That commitment is backed by our three-year bumper-to-bumper limited warranty, which is also transferable to a second owner.

Are Airstreams high maintenance? Airstreams are also known to be easy to clean because there aren't many features or square feet in the trailer. The minimal design makes it easy to wipe down the surfaces, dust, and clean the floors in less than an hour when you're looking for low-maintenance campers for sale.

Should I wax my Airstream? At minimum, we recommend a good scrub a couple times across the course of your camping season – after every trip if you can manage it. And we recommend waxing a minimum of twice a year to keep the aluminum protected for years to come.

Why is Airstream expensive? Brand Legacy and Community The high cost of Airstream trailers is a reflection of their unmatched quality, iconic design, and the unparalleled experience they offer.

Do Airstreams leak? Even though Airstreams are sealed and leak tested at the factory, leaks can happen. All RVs are susceptible to leaks and is something that can be addressed through regular inspections and maintenance. You should inspect your Airstream for potential water leaks at least once a year at a minimum.

Is Airstream owned by Mercedes? Mercedes-Benz partnered with the Airstream RV company to deliver a lineup of luxury touring coaches fit for any road trip.

Are Airstreams hard to maintain? The riveted aluminum shell of an Airstream travel trailer requires far less maintenance than the typical fiberglass exterior used in other RVs. There's less need for sealing, more water-resistance, and fewer leaks.

What is the life expectancy of an Airstream? Longevity. Airstreams can easily last 40 years and more, compared to the conventional trailers typical life of 15 years. When you amortize the purchase price over its length of service, an Airstream actually costs less to own than other trailers. Over 70 percent of all Airstreams ever made are still on the road today!

How to care for an Airstream? We recommend washing Your Airstream about every four weeks and waxing with Walbernize Super Seal, or high quality clear coat-safe wax, in the spring and fall. In coastal and industrial areas, cleaning and waxing should be done more frequently.

How often do you need to seal an Airstream? Twice a year in the Spring and Fall, we recommend checking your Airstream's external sealants. It's an easy task to add to your winterization and de-winterization checklist and will help prevent leaks.
