What should a leasing agent wear? Maintain a Professional Appearance A real estate agent is a professional career, and your attire should reflect this level of accomplishment and expertise. Traditional options include dress pants or slacks, blazers, cardigans, and blouses or shirts.

What is the 90% rule for leases? The 90% rule is one of the criteria used to classify leases as operating or finance. If the present value of future lease payment is substantially all, or 90% of the fair value of the leased asset, then the lease is not an operating lease.

What is the most common lease term for an apartment? One-year leases are by far and large the most popular length for leases. They're good if you have high-quality tenants and an effective tenant screening process in place. In this case, year-long leases are good because it secures good tenants for a long period of time.

How short is too short a lease? There is no set rule about the length of a lease that is too short to sell. But when a lease falls below 80 years, the cost of extending it increases dramatically, making it harder to sell. Mortgage lenders, generally, will not lend on properties with a lease that is shorter than the mortgage.

What is a good rate on a lease? The lower the money factor, the less interest you'll pay over your lease term. Generally, a money factor of 0.0025 and below (the equivalent of 6% APR) is considered a good rate.

What is a good rental margin? A good profit margin for rental property is typically greater than 10% but between 5 and 10% can be a good ROI on rental property to start with. What is the 2% cash flow rule? The 2% cash flow rule of thumb calculates the amount of rental income a property can expected to generate.

What is a normal closing rate? High-performing sales organizations are said to close 30% of their sales qualified leads (SQLs), while average companies only close 20%. Sales qualified leads are qualified prospects who can move into the next stage of the sales journey.

How to increase traffic for leasing? Generating leads online is the number one source of traffic apartment communities receive from potential residents. Apartment marketing teams can reach potential residents in many ways online including website design with contact forms, social media channels, SEO, and even digital marketing.

How do I befriend my neighbors apartment?
