What are the four questions of history?

Why did Mahan want a stronger navy? Mahan wanted the United States to build a blue-water navy. He wanted the nation to promote and subscribe to policies that would require the development of a large navy consistent with his theories as expressed in The Influence of Sea Power. As he later wrote: Navies are instruments of international relations . . .

What did Alfred T. Mahan believe was the key to America becoming a world power? Alfred Thayer Mahan, a naval strategist and the author of The Influence of Sea Power Upon History, argued that national prosperity and power depended on control of the world's sea-lanes.

Why did Mahan want the United States to build a canal across Central America? Finally, Mahan urged the future construction of a canal across the isthmus of Central America, which would decrease by two-thirds the time and power required to move the new navy from the Pacific to the Atlantic oceans.

Why did Wilson end up invading Mexico? Pancho Villa's forces then raided the town of Columbus, New Mexico, on March 9, 1916, resulting in the death of sixteen Americans and much larger casualties for Villa's forces. In response, the Wilson Administration decided to order a punitive raid into Mexico with the goal of capturing Pancho Villa.

Why did Woodrow Wilson not like Huerta? Also, President Wilson simply didn't like Huerta, believing him to be corrupt, violent, unreasonable, and alcoholic, and didn't want him controlling U.S. interests in Mexico. On 4 March, Huerta sent a letter congratulating Wilson, but Wilson replied to General, not President, Huerta.

Why did Wilson refuse to recognize the new Mexican government? Why did Wilson refuse to recognize the government of Huerta in Mexico? He called it "government by murder" because the president got murdered by his own military. He did not want to recognize a government that only held power and did not realize how it obtained power.

Did the United States help Panama rebel against Columbia? President Roosevelt responded by dispatching U.S. warships to Panama City (on the Pacific) and Colón (on the Atlantic) in support of Panamanian independence. Colombian troops were unable to negotiate the jungles of the Darien Strait and Panama declared independence on November 3, 1903.
