Skippping Towards Gomorrah: An Interview with Dan Savage

Q: What were your initial thoughts when you first heard about the term "Skippping Towards Gomorrah"?

A: I was initially intrigued by the phrase. It suggested a sense of inevitability, as if society were headed towards some kind of doom. I felt that it was a provocative way to think about the challenges facing our world today.

Q: Do you agree with the premise that society is "skippping towards Gomorrah"?

A: I believe that there are certainly some troubling signs in our culture today. We seem to be witnessing a decline in civility, tolerance, and empathy. However, I'm not sure that I would say that we are necessarily doomed. I think it's important to remember that history is not always linear. There are always setbacks and challenges, but there are also opportunities for progress.

Q: What do you think are some of the biggest challenges facing society today?

A: I think one of the biggest challenges is the rise of inequality. We are seeing a widening gap between the rich and the poor, and this is having a negative impact on our social and economic fabric. Another challenge is the spread of misinformation and disinformation. We live in an age where it is increasingly difficult to distinguish between fact and fiction, and this is making it harder for people to make informed decisions.

Q: What do you think we can do to address these challenges?

A: I think it's important to start by acknowledging these challenges and talking about them openly. We need to have honest conversations about what is happening in our society and what we can do to address it. I also think it's important to support organizations and institutions that are working to make a difference.

Q: What role do you think the media plays in shaping our understanding of the challenges facing society?

A: The media plays a significant role in shaping our understanding of the world. It can either amplify or downplay certain issues, and it can influence how we think about them. I think it's important for the media to be responsible and to strive to provide accurate and balanced coverage of the news.
