Sold Keeping Her in the Dark: An Interview with Leslie Sansom

1. What inspired you to write "Sold Keeping Her in the Dark"?

"I was inspired by a true story I heard about a young woman who was sold into slavery. I was shocked and horrified by what she had gone through, and I wanted to tell her story in a way that would raise awareness about the issue of human trafficking."

2. What research did you do for the book?

"I spent a lot of time researching human trafficking. I read books and articles, and I talked to experts in the field. I also visited shelters and safe houses for victims of human trafficking, and I met with people who had been through the experience themselves."

3. What message do you hope readers will take away from the book?

"I hope readers will come away from the book with a better understanding of the issue of human trafficking. I also hope they will be inspired to take action to help victims of trafficking and to prevent it from happening in the first place."

4. What are some of the challenges you faced while writing the book?

"One of the biggest challenges was finding the right voice for the main character. I wanted to tell her story in a way that was both authentic and compelling. I also wanted to make sure that the book was accessible to readers of all ages."

5. What do you hope the book will achieve?

"I hope the book will help to raise awareness about the issue of human trafficking. I also hope it will inspire people to take action to help victims of trafficking and to prevent it from happening in the first place."
