The End Certainty: Ending Gender-Based Violence (GBV)

Gender-based violence (GBV) remains a pervasive problem, affecting countless individuals worldwide. The End Certainty is a global initiative aimed at eradicating GBV through evidence-based interventions and transformative policies.

1. What is The End Certainty? The End Certainty is a groundbreaking initiative launched by the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) and the European Union. It seeks to eliminate GBV by 2030, focusing on comprehensive prevention, prosecution, protection, and service provision.

2. Why is it Crucial to End GBV? GBV is a grave violation of human rights that has devastating physical, mental, and social consequences. It perpetuates gender inequality, undermines economic development, and hampers efforts towards achieving sustainable peace.

3. What are the Key Strategies of The End Certainty? The End Certainty employs a multifaceted approach that includes:

- Strengthening legal frameworks and law enforcement mechanisms
- Promoting transformative social norms that challenge gender stereotypes
- Providing essential services to victims and survivors, including healthcare, counseling, and legal aid
- Empowering women and girls through education and economic opportunities

4. How does The End Certainty Address the "Certainty" of GBV? Many victims and survivors of GBV face barriers to seeking help and obtaining justice due to the prevalence of impunity. The End Certainty aims to break this cycle of certainty by increasing accountability for perpetrators and ensuring that victims have access to support and protection.

5. What Impact is The End Certainty Making? The End Certainty has already achieved significant progress in several countries. In Ethiopia, it has supported the development of a national action plan on GBV and strengthened the capacity of law enforcement officers to respond to GBV cases. In Rwanda, the initiative has facilitated the establishment of safe spaces for survivors and increased reporting of GBV incidents.
