Question 1: Explain the structure and function of the cell membrane.

WRITE YOUR NOVEL FROM THE MIDDLE A NEW APPROACH FOR PLOTTERS PANTSERS AND EVE

Answer: The cell membrane is a phospholipid bilayer that surrounds the cell and regulates the movement of substances in and out. It consists of a hydrophobic (water-repelling) interior sandwiched between two hydrophilic (water-loving) outer layers. The cell membrane also contains proteins that facilitate the transport of molecules, such as ion channels and carrier proteins.

Question 2: Describe the role of the nucleus in cell division.

Answer: The nucleus is the control center of the cell and contains the cell's DNA. During cell division, the nuclear membrane breaks down and the chromosomes, which carry the DNA, condense and become visible. The chromosomes are then separated and distributed to the two daughter cells.

Question 3: Explain the process of protein synthesis.

Answer: Protein synthesis is the process by which cells create proteins, which are essential for cell function. It occurs in two steps: transcription and translation. During transcription, the DNA in the nucleus is used to create a messenger RNA (mRNA) molecule. The mRNA then moves to the ribosomes in the cytoplasm, where it directs the synthesis of a protein.

Question 4: Describe the differences between mitosis and meiosis.

Answer: Mitosis is the process by which a cell divides to produce two identical daughter cells. It occurs in somatic cells, which are all cells in the body except for gametes. Meiosis is the process by which a cell divides to produce four haploid daughter cells. It occurs in gametes, which are sex cells.

Question 5: Explain the role of the cytoskeleton in cell movement.

Answer: The cytoskeleton is a network of protein filaments that provides structural support for the cell and facilitates cell movement. It consists of three types of filaments: microtubules, microfilaments, and intermediate filaments. Microtubules are involved in cell division and the movement of organelles, while microfilaments are involved in cell shape and movement. Intermediate filaments provide structural support for the cell.
