What does John Cage say about silence? There is no such thing as an empty space or an empty time. There is always something to see, something to hear. In fact, try as we may to make a silence, we cannot.

What was the idea behind 4 33 of silence? Above all, 4'33"—in fact, more of an experiment than a composition—is intended to question the very notion of music. Cage believed that "silence is a real note" and "will henceforth designate all the sounds not wanted by the composer".

What is the point of John Cage's 4/33? The "point" of 4'33", and the thrust of much avant-garde art, is that it presents an open process rather than a narrow attempt to achieve a specific intended result by realizing a composer's prescribed directives. It's an invitation, not a command.

Is 4 33 just silence? 4'33?, musical composition by John Cage created in 1952 and first performed on August 29 of that year. It quickly became one of the most controversial musical works of the 20th century because it consisted of silence or, more precisely, ambient sound—what Cage called "the absence of intended sounds."

What is the quote about being silent? It is better either to be silent or to say things of more value than silence. Sooner throw a pearl at hazard than an idle or useless word; and do not say a little in many words but a great deal in a few. The world would be happier if men had the same capacity to be silent that they have to speak.—

Silence is not merely the absence of sounds; something is called silence when there is no apparent connection to the intentions that produce these sounds.

He is perhaps best known for his 1952 composition 4'33", which is performed in the absence of deliberate sound; musicians who present the work do nothing aside from being present for the duration specified by the title.

What are four beats of silence? Semibreve (Whole) Rests Semibreve rest = 4 beats of silence, or a whole bar of silence worth any number of beats.

What was the sound of John Cage's piece 4 33 was created by? Explanation: The sound of John Cage's piece 4'33", one of the most famous experimental compositions in 20th-century music, was created by essentially complete silence. This innovative work consists of three movements in which no deliberate sound is made by the performer.

What is the masterpiece of John Cage? John Cage's 1952 work 4'33" has proven a touchstone for artists, composers, and thinkers of all kinds, spawning conceptual artworks, experimental gestures, and even an iPhone app. But even as almost everyone agrees on its importance, misunderstandings about the work proliferate.

Why is John Cage so important? A pioneer of indeterminacy in music, electroacoustic music, and non-standard use of musical instruments, Cage was one of the leading figures of the post-war avant-garde. Critics have lauded him as one of the most influential composers of the 20th century.

What are the rules of John Cage?

Who called 4 33 one of the most intense listening experiences you can have? Tudor called it 'one of the most intense listening experiences you can have'.

Is 4:33 copyrighted? Now for the big question: can you go ahead and copy sound recordings of 4:33? We're sorry to say that you can't. While the recordings are in the public domain, Cage died in 1992, so the copyright in the underlying musical composition will not lapse until Public Domain Day 2063.

How long did it take to write 4 33? He would later say that 4:33 took longer for him to write than any other piece, because he worked on it, as a concept, for four years.
