What is the Ahfs drug information? The American Hospital Formulary Service® Drug Information (AHFS DI) from the American Society of Health-System Pharmacists® (ASHP - www.ashp.org) provides an evidence-based foundation for safe and effective drug therapy.

What is the diagnosis of Ahfs? AHFS is defined as gradual or rapid change in heart failure (HF) signs and symptoms resulting in a need for urgent therapy. These symptoms are primarily the result of severe pulmonary congestion due to elevated left ventricular (LV) filling pressures (with or without low cardiac output).

When was the first Ahfs released? AHFS® was first published in 1959 as an adaptation from the Hospital Formulary of Selected Drugs by Don E. Francke. AHFS® had its roots in the hospital formulary system, which was intended to establish a sound therapeutic and economic basis for drug policy.

What is the American hospital formulary classification system? The AHFS Pharmacologic-Therapeutic Classification System is a method of grouping drugs with similar pharmacologic, therapeutic, and/or chemical characteristics in a 4-tier hierarchy associated with a numeric code consisting of 2 to 8 digits.

How do I access AHFS? When you purchase an individual subscription to AHFS Clinical Drug Information through the ASHP Store, you will receive a redemption code. Go to <https://www.ahfscdi.com> or download the app, create an account, and redeem your code.

How often is ahfs updated? Licensing Information AHFS Drug Information® and AHFS DI® Essentials™ Databases can be licensed by healthcare information system developers in formats and with content areas specific to organizational requirements. Content is updated monthly and available in XML.

What is the full form of AHF in medical terms? Antihemophilic factor (AHF) is a protein that is produced naturally in the body. It helps the blood form clots to stop bleeding and prevents bleeding problems from happening as often. Hemophilia A, also called classical hemophilia, is a condition where the body does not make enough AHF.

What is hospital formulary content? In its simplest form, the formulary is a list of medications available for use at a hospital or health-system. This list includes the dosage forms, strengths and package sizes of each of the medications on it. Diligent management of this list has both patient care and financial implications.

What is the definition of acute heart failure? Acute heart failure is a sudden, life-threatening condition in which the heart is unable to do its job. The heart is still beating, but it cannot deliver enough oxygen to meet the body's needs. This condition requires emergency medical care.

Where was the first hospital pharmacy in America? In 1752, Philadelphia Hospital, colonial America's first hospital, opened the first hospital pharmacy. In these early days, many physicians found themselves concerned about the quality of both medicine and pharmacists in the country.

When was the first national formulary published in pharmacy? The National Formulary (NF), established in 1888 by the American Pharmaceutical Association, includes standards for excipients, botanicals, and other similar products. USP purchased the NF in 1975, combining the two publications under one cover, creating the USP-NF.

What is drug formulary USA? A formulary is a list of generic and brand name prescription drugs covered by your health plan. Non-formulary drugs typically only include brand-name medications and come with high out-of-pocket expenses.

What does AHFs DI stand for? The AHFS DI is one of several compendiums approved by the Social Security Act (Section 1861(t)(2)(B)(ii)(I)) as a source of off-label anti-cancer drug use. It was originally published in 1959 as the American Hospital Formulary Service (AHFS) by the American Society of Health-System Pharmacists.

What is a drug list and formulary? A drug formulary, or preferred drug list, is a continually updated list of medications and related products supported by current evidence-based medicine, judgment of physicians, pharmacists and other experts in the diagnosis and treatment of disease and preservation of health.

What is the American drug Index? The American Drug Index, by virtue of its more frequent publication schedule, provides more nomenclature information on newer drug products. It identifies these products in terms of all designations (nonproprietary names and trademarks) that have been brought into use.

What is the pharmacy drug database? Pharmacy drug database refers to the collection and compilation of data related to various drugs that can be used by physicians and other healthcare professionals to ensure provision of best pharmaceutical services to the patients.

What is the information of dispensing medicine? Dispensing includes preparing and giving medication for a client to take later, taking steps to ensure the pharmaceutical and therapeutic suitability of the medication for its intended use, and taking steps to ensure its proper use. Nurses dispense with or without the involvement of a pharmacist.

What is drug information Service in pharmacy? Drug information service A formalized unit with staff and resources dedicated to providing information to healthcare professionals and/or the public on aspects of drug therapy. The staff and resources dedicated to the provision of drug information services usually work, where feasible, within a drug information centre.
