IB Business Management Syllabus Content: 2017-18

The International Baccalaureate (IB) Business Management syllabus for the 2017-18 academic year encompasses a comprehensive range of topics designed to provide students with a thorough understanding of the key concepts and principles of business management.

Unit 1: Business Organization and Environment

This unit covers the fundamental aspects of business organization, including ownership structures, management hierarchy, and business strategy. Students also explore the external environment in which businesses operate, examining factors such as globalization, economic indicators, and technological advancements.

Unit 2: Human Resource Management

Unit 2 focuses on the essential role of human resources within an organization. Topics include recruitment and selection, training and development, and motivation and leadership. Students analyze the impact of human capital on business performance and develop strategies to enhance workforce productivity.

Unit 3: Finance and Accounting

The third unit delves into the financial and accounting aspects of business management. Students examine different sources of finance, investment decision-making, and financial analysis. They also interpret financial statements and understand the importance of accounting principles for transparency and accuracy.

Unit 4: Marketing

Unit 4 explores the concepts and practices of marketing. Students study different types of markets, consumer behavior, market research, and the development and execution of marketing campaigns. They also analyze the impact of marketing strategies on brand recognition and sales performance.

Unit 5: Operations Management

The final unit focuses on the operational aspects of business management. Students examine different types of production systems, inventory management, quality control, and supply chain management. They develop an understanding of the challenges and opportunities involved in optimizing business processes and improving efficiency.

The Passive Voice Perfect in English Grammar

The passive voice perfect is a verb tense used to indicate that an action has been completed by a specified time in the past. It is formed using the past participle of the main verb and the helping verb "have" or "has."

When to Use the Passive Voice Perfect

The passive voice perfect is typically used in situations where the emphasis is on the completion of an action rather than the person or thing performing the action. It is often used in the following scenarios:

- To describe completed actions in the past:
 - The report has been completed.
- To emphasize the result of an action:
 - The house has been repainted, giving it a fresh new look.
- To avoid specifying the person or thing responsible for an action:
 - The car was stolen last night.
 - The crime has been solved.

Forming the Passive Voice Perfect

The passive voice perfect is formed using the following structure:

Subject + have/has + past participle of main verb

For example:

- The book has been read.
- The children have been fed.

Questions in the Passive Voice Perfect

Questions in the passive voice perfect are formed by inverting the subject and the helping verb.

Yes/No Questions:

- Has the report been completed?
- Have the children been fed?

Wh- Questions:

- Who has stolen the car?
- What has been solved?

Answers in the Passive Voice Perfect

Answers in the passive voice perfect are formed by following the same structure as questions, but adding "yes" or "no" as appropriate.

- Yes/No Questions:

- Yes, the report has been completed.
- No, the children have not been fed.

- Wh- Questions:

- The car has been stolen by a thief.

- The crime has been solved by the police.
