Download Complete File

What do the codes mean on a cruise ship? Code Alpha: Medical emergency. Code Bravo: Fire on board. Code Oscar: Man overboard. Code Delta: Damage to the ship or flooding emergency. Code Echo: Security threat.

What are category codes on cruises? The number corresponds to the type of stateroom (inside, oceanview, verandah) and typically the higher the number the more economical the stateroom is. The letter that follows it (A-E) corresponds to the location on the ship and typically the higher decks have either an A or a B, but that is not always the case.

What does code red mean on a cruise ship? "Code Red" is used to signal a potential norovirus outbreak or other contagious illness onboard. In response to this code, enhanced sanitation measures are implemented throughout the ship to prevent the spread of illness and protect the health of passengers and crew members.

What is code blue on a cruise ship? Charlie, Charlie, Charlie is the code for a security threat aboard Royal Caribbean ships and the code for upcoming helicopter winch operations aboard c-bed accommodation vessels. Code blue usually means a medical emergency.

What does ship code mean? "Ship code" is a slang term for delivering a software product to your customer, it can also mean delivering code to the next step in the development process, i.e. developers would "ship code" to QA so the testers can do their work on it.

What is code Mike on a cruise ship? Operation Bright Star (Code Mike on Oceania Cruises) – medical emergency, urgent assistance required. Operation Rising Star – someone died on board. Oscar, Oscar, Oscar – man overboard on Royal Caribbean ships. Mr. Skylight, or Alpha, Alpha, Alpha – minor emergency.

What is cruising code? The Code C (Cruising) is a combination of a Code 0 and an asymmetrical spinnaker, designed for wind angles ranging from 65 to 135 degrees. It can even be used wing-on-wing up to 180 degrees, offering a wide wind range. Additionally, this sail is furled on its own furler, making it as easy to handle as a roller genoa.

What are the category codes? Category codes are a type of user-defined code that you use to classify employees for tracking and reporting. You can define up to 20 category codes to meet the specific requirements of your organization.

What are the 4 main cruise line classification? Embarking on a cruise is a thrilling adventure, but with a sea of options, choosing the right cruise line can be as complex as navigating the ocean's tides. To help you steer in the right direction, this guide examines four main cruise line categories – mass-market, premium, entry-luxury, and ultra-luxury.

What does "bravo bravo bravo" mean on a ship? Bravo. "Bravo" indicates that a fire has occurred on the ship. Do not panic if you hear this announced, since reacting with panic will not help the situation. It is important, though, that you be aware and wait for instructions on what to do next. Alpha or Sierra, and Operation Bright Star or Rising Star.

What do the cruise control symbols mean? The cruise control system will often be a speedometer symbol with an arrow pointing to a set speed. It will light up green when it has been successfully set, and an amber or yellow light can indicate that cruise control is enabled but not set, or that there is a problem with the system.

What are the secret symbols on cruise ships? Pineapple-related clothing or accessories, especially upside-down pineapples, are popular symbols used by couples or individuals to subtly indicate that they are secretly interested and/or actively looking to participate in 'swinging' or partner-swapping. Yes, you read that correctly!

What do the letters mean on cruise ship rooms? IA, OA, BA, and MA are the cabins in the prime location - higher decks and mid-ship. IT, OT, and BT are the newly-designated solo cabins (T1 is the Studio cabin). Letter+B is mid-ship and lower, and the other letters/numbers depend on the ship.
