The Oxford Handbook of the European Union (OUP 2021) is a comprehensive and authoritative reference work on the European Union (EU). Edited by leading scholars of EU politics, this handbook provides a critical overview of key topics and debates in the field.

1. What is the European Union?

The European Union is a political and economic union of 27 member states that are located primarily in Europe. It was established with the signing of the Maastricht Treaty in 1992, and has since grown to become one of the most influential international organizations in the world.

2. How does the EU function?

The EU has a complex institutional structure that includes the European Parliament, the European Council, the European Commission, the Court of Justice of the European Union, and the European Central Bank. These institutions work together to legislate, implement, and adjudicate EU policies.

3. What are the key challenges facing the EU?

The EU has faced a number of challenges in recent years, including the Eurozone crisis, the rise of populism and Euroscepticism, and the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic. These challenges have tested the EU's resilience and raised questions about its future.

4. What are the EU's main policy areas?

The EU has a wide range of policy areas, including economic and monetary policy, trade policy, environmental policy, and social policy. The EU also plays an important role in international affairs, and it has been a key player in the ongoing Ukraine crisis.

5. What is the future of the EU?

The future of the EU is uncertain. The EU faces a number of challenges, but it also has a strong foundation to build upon. The EU's ability to adapt and respond to these challenges will determine its future success.

Why did Jinnah wanted Pakistan? By 1940, Jinnah had come to believe that the Muslims of the subcontinent should have their own state to avoid the possible marginalised status they may might be reduced to in an independent Hindu–Muslim state.

What is Muhammad Ali Jinnah known for? What is Mohammed Ali Jinnah known for? Mohammed Ali Jinnah was the founder and first governor-general (1947–48) of Pakistan. He is revered as the father of Pakistan. He also sought the political union of Hindus and Muslims, which earned him the title of “the best ambassador of Hindu-Muslim unity.”

Was Jinnah Sunni or Shia? Although born into a Khoja (from khwaja or 'noble') family who were disciples of the Ismaili Aga Khan, Jinnah moved towards the Sunni sect early in life. There is evidence later, given by his relatives and associates in court, to establish that he was firmly a Sunni Muslim by the end of his life (Merchant 1990).

Who are the ancestors of Jinnah? Originally from a Gujrati-speaking Lohana caste of Thakkar background, they moved to Karachi from Kathiawar, Bombay Province in 1875. Jinnah's paternal grandfather, Poonja Gokuldas Meghji, was from Paneli Moti village in Gondal state in Kathiawar peninsula (now in Gujarat, India).

What is the aim of Jinnah? He proposed a fourteen-point constitutional reform plan to safeguard the political rights of Muslims in a self-governing India. Jinnah later advocated the Two-Nation Theory embracing the goal of creating a separate Muslim state as per the Lahore Resolution.

Who first wanted Pakistan? Muhammad Ali Jinnah is considered the father of the "two-nation theory". The "two-nation theory" was put forward in the Lahore session of the Muslim League in 1940. Jinnah gave a speech in Lahore in which he talked of the impossibility of living as one nation in 1940. The name Pakistan was first coined by Rahmat Ali.

What did Muhammad Ali Jinnah demanded? The Fourteen Points of Jinnah were proposed by Muhammad Ali Jinnah in response to the Nehru report. It consisted of four Delhi proposals, the three Calcutta amendments, demands for the continuation of separate electorates and reservation of seats for Muslims in government services and self-governing bodies.

Who gave the idea of Pakistan? On 28 January 1933, Choudhry Rahmat Ali voiced his ideas on 'Pakistan'. By the end of 1933, the word "Pakistan" became common vocabulary where an "I" was added to ease pronunciation (as in Afghan-i-stan).

Was Ali Jinnah rich? Practising law, Jinnah became rich. He lived in a large house in Hampstead, employed an English chauffeur to drive his Bentley, maintained an Indian and a British chef and kept houses on the Malabar Hill in Bombay and in New Delhi designed by Edwin Lutyens.

What language did Muhammad Ali Jinnah speak? Jinnah was, in some ways, an unlikely advocate of Urdu. A Westernized Muslim, educated in England, his mother tongue was Gujarati, and he was not well-versed in Urdu. Nevertheless, as early as 1938, he made a point of addressing crowds in Urdu, despite his general lack of fluency in the language.

What is jinn in Islam? The Quran describes jinn as spirits made of fire. Jinn were created before humans, but humans are considered superior. Jinn can see and influence humans, but humans cannot see jinn. Jinn are permitted to choose moral or immoral behavior and are offered salvation just like humans are.

Was Jinnah a secularist? Secularists feel that Mohammad Ali Jinnah argued for an implementation of Muslim state in which people of all religions would have equal rights and live as free citizens as distinguished from a religious oligarchy, he envisioned for a progressive and liberal Muslim state of Pakistan.

Did Jinnah's father convert to Islam? He was socially ostracized and subsequently Premji's son Punjalal Thakkar (Father of Jinnah) converted to Islam. Jinnah was born as Mohammed Ali and added a suffix "Jinnah" to his name later after his father's nickname "Jinno" which means the skinny one in Gujarati.

When did Jinnah left India? In 1920 he left the Indian National Congress and the Home Rule League because he disagreed with Mahatma Gandhi's Hindu politics and campaign of civil disobedience. He continued to work for the Muslim League as president and remained hopeful of Hindu–Muslim unity well into the 1930s.

Who are Pakistani ancestors? Basically Pakistanis are believed to be a blend of native Indus people, who probably looked similar to Australian aborigines or modern South Indians and incoming Indo-Iranic tribes from the Caspian coasts of Eurasia who were white and resembled modern Europeans.

When did Jinnah demand Pakistan? At its 1940 Lahore session, Muhammad Ali Jinnah announced his demand to create Pakistan as a separate Muslim state.

Did Jinnah want Pakistan to be secular? It has been argued by secularists that in this speech Jinnah wanted to point out that Pakistan would be a secular state.

Who wanted to separate Pakistan from India? Muhammad Ali Jinnah disagreed strongly with Gandhi over independence. But All-India Muslim League leader Muhammad Ali Jinnah demanded partition as part of the independence settlement. "It would have taken a long time to get agreement about how a united India would work," Dr Price says.

Why did Jinnah want Kashmir? Jinnah opposed the plan and claimed that the Kashmir, with its massive Muslim majority, belonged to Pakistan as an essential element in an incomplete partition process.
