What are the two basic pleadings? A pleading^[2] is a formal written statement filed with the court by a party to a civil action. Pleadings can be categorized as complaints or answers, though both have variations. A party filing a complaint is the complaining party, while the other side is the responding party.

What are examples of pleadings? There are several types of pleadings in civil litigation. There may also be counterclaims, crossclaims, and third-party claims, which are also types of pleadings.

What is drafting legal documents? “Legal” documents seek to effectively account for the facts and law that can impact the parties to a document.
